

IRLA blog #002

13/06/18

Rachel Gawler – IRLA Learning & Development Ambassador

An IRLA panel for the first time talking about Diversity, would I be sitting here on my own? I was pleasantly surprised! Great turnout for the session and unlike some [Congress] sessions this year, and in prior years I've attended, the Diversity panel generated a lot of engagement and interaction with the audience and although many questions were asked and debated, there are still more for the team to review and feedback on. Hats off to the IRLA MCC and Secretariat for the introduction of the App and the ability to ask questions anonymously as that really worked at Congress for many of the sessions.

It was interesting to hear the different perspectives from the panellists, being from different parts of the legacy market and with the variety of experiences, and a little humour thrown in too to lighten things up. Statistics taken from IRLA's own records gave a good base from which to build the topic and we are hopeful that the survey that followed Congress will aid us more, do watch this space.

Rachel Gawler, ACMA CGMA Cert CII, IRLA Learning & Development Committee
The full article will follow on www.irla-international.com

THE VOICE OF LEGACY

Representation • Education • Networking

T: +44 (0) 203 362 4233

E: secretariat@irla-international.com